1.2 From the price information in this report, there is a considerable amount of interpretation that will be possible

Subject to the clear limitation that this data is historical, the following interpretation is anticipated to be possible:

- Individual operators can better identify where a batch of their fruit is located in the marketplace quality/price spectrum, for region-by-variety.
- Buyers and purchasers will be able to accurately pinpoint the standing of their fruit compared to the competitive set.
- Individual operators can identify the potential price reward available from investing in quality improvements.
- Individual operators can calculate the rate of return potentially available from any investment in quality improvements.
- Winemakers will be able to describe their quality regimes.
- Winemakers will be able to describe where on a quality/price spectrum, fruit inputs required for particular brands and products are located.
- The price information will facilitate general business planning and margin management.
- As inputs into business management, this price information will facilitate greater efficiency in winegrape growing enterprises.
